

TIME TO SPARE

A thunder-like rumble and crash, followed by cheers, laughter and groans, resounds from the recreation hall at the Tazwell County Nursing Home near Tremont, Ill.

It's a sound of people obviously having a good time and it's heard during the monthly competition between the home's "boys" and "girls" bowling teams.

According to the recreation director, Mrs. Walter Smith, the elderly but young-in-heart who reside at the home take eagerly to tossing the plastic bowling balls at a set of plastic pins set up in the hall.

While the "boys" team won this particular game, the "girls" have captured their share of games too.

Win, lose or draw, it is easy to see from the expressions of the participants that they're having a lot of fun.

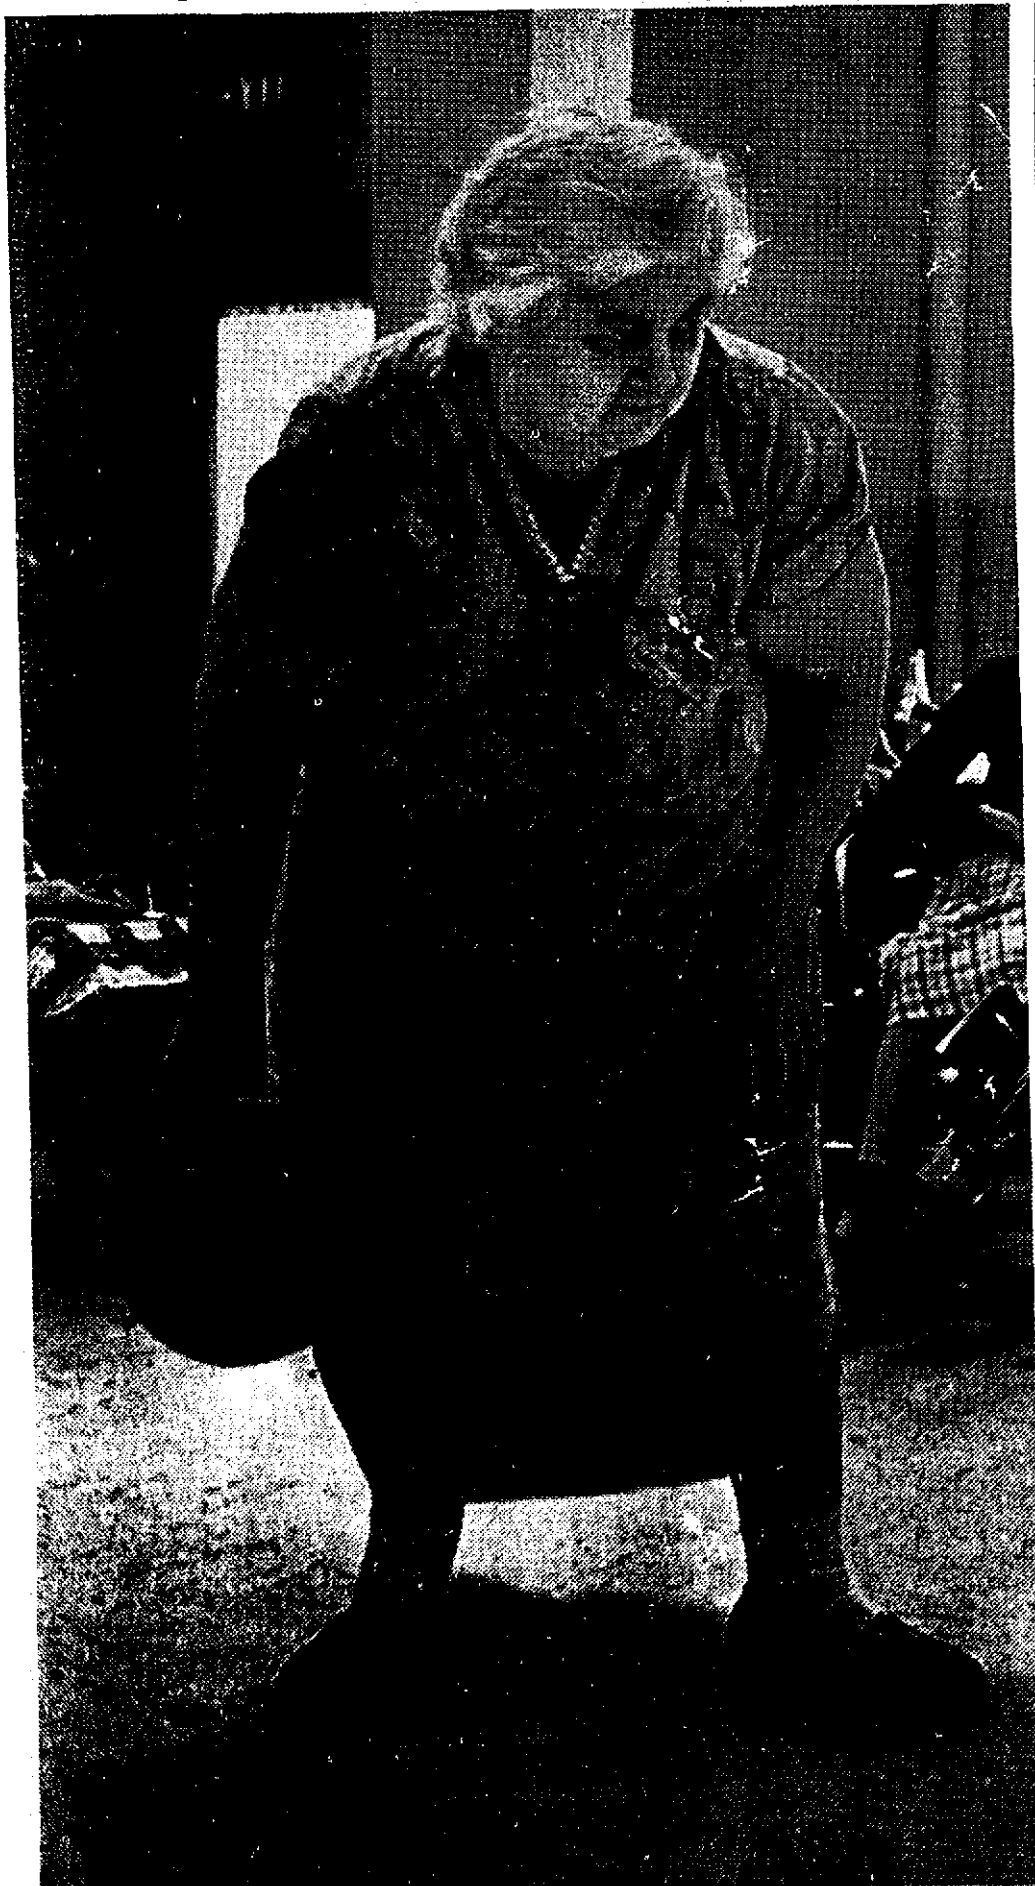

Holding onto her walker, Miss Lela Whitmore sends the ball flying pinward.

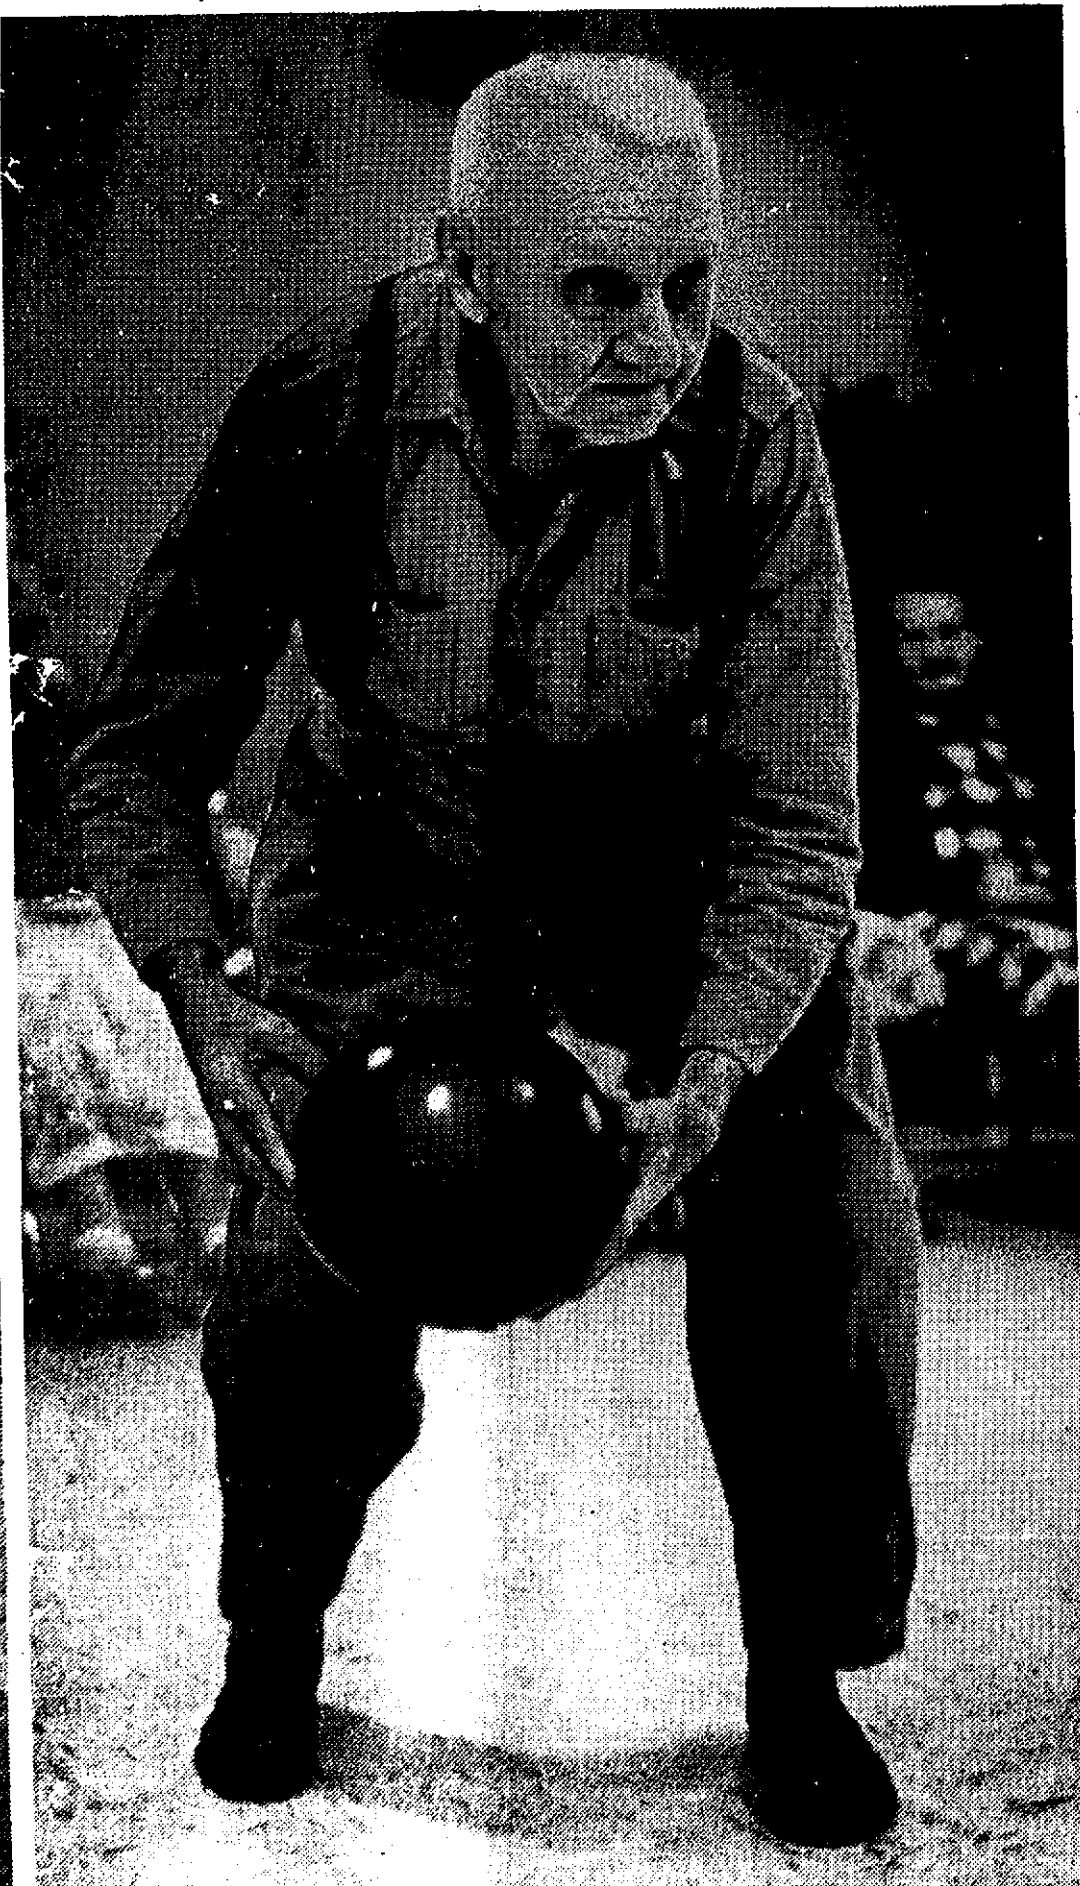

Expression on Miss Whitmore's face spells "STRIKE!"

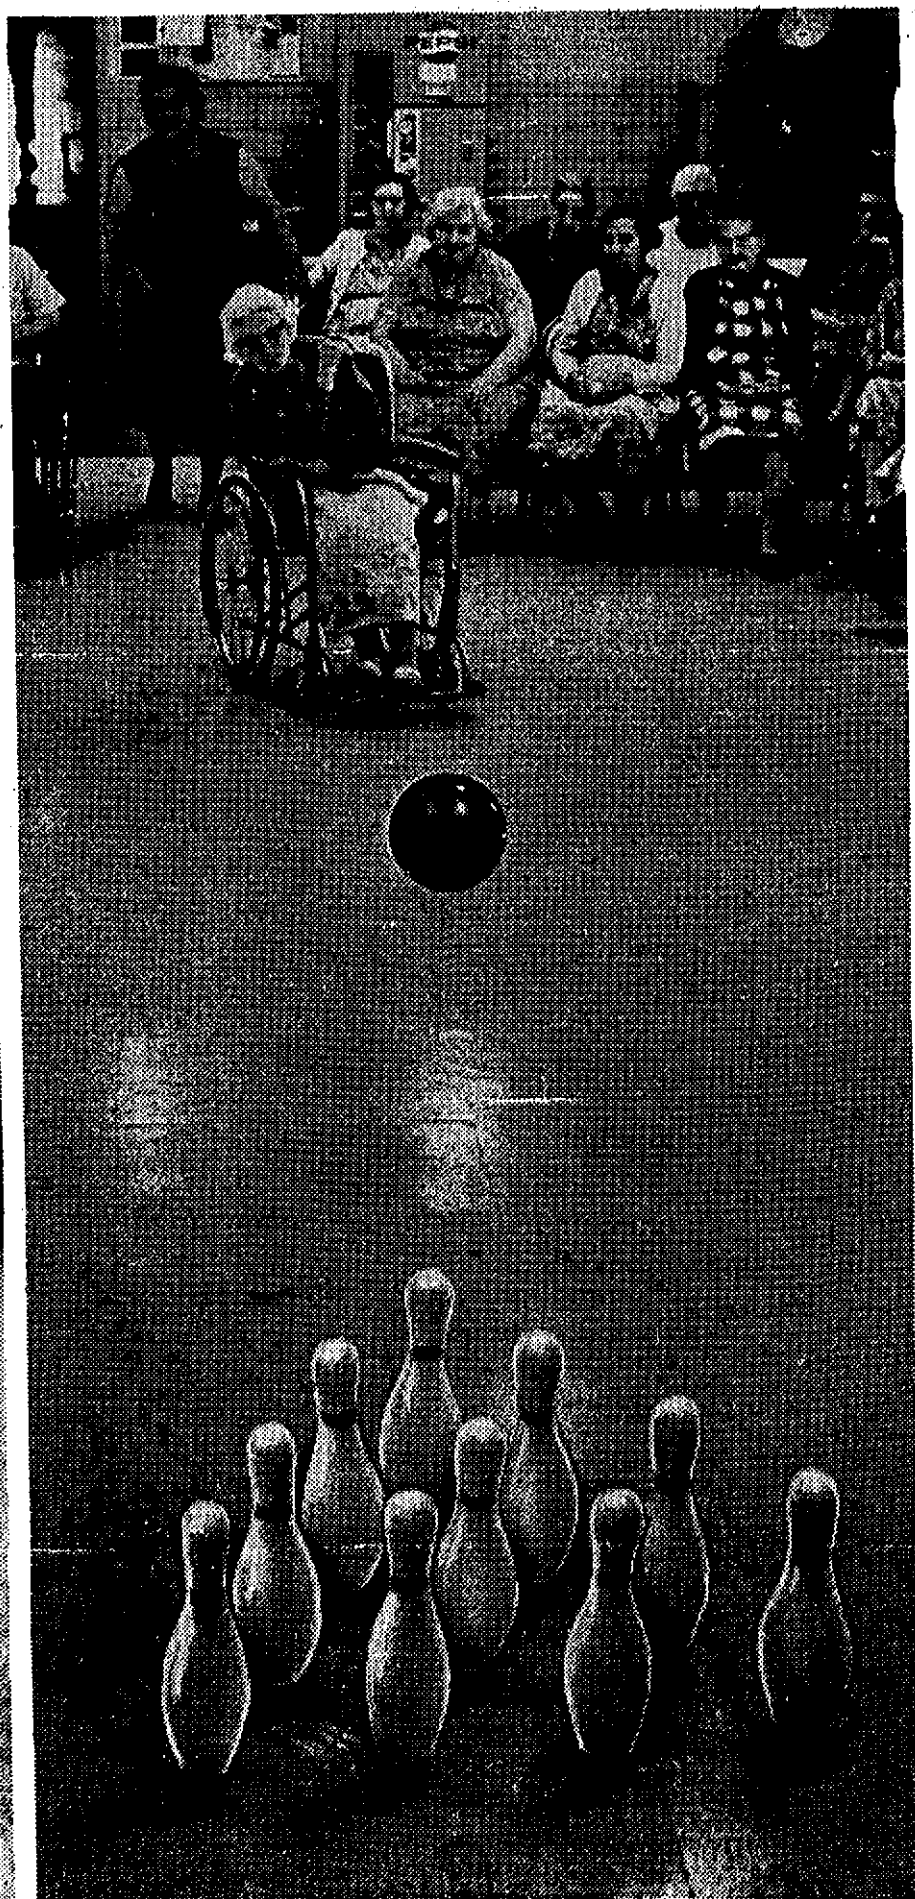

There's exercise at the other end of the alley too, setting pins.

Mrs. Marie Johnson takes a deadly aim before throwing the ball.

Men's team anchorman, Lee Boyles, uses a sidewise crouch prior to delivery.

With mighty toss, Mrs. Anna Flairty lofts ball towards pins.

Ashdown Council Hears Progress Report on Mill

Bill Arnold, Texarkana lawyer, briefed the Ashdown City Council this week on the progress of the preliminary work on the Nekooza - Edwards paper mill to be built near Ashdown.

Arnold is special counsel for the city of Ashdown and local counsel for the Nekooza - Edwards Paper Co., which plans to build a $46 million plant in Little River County.

In his report on conferences with state officials in Little Rock, and underwriters and bond people, and their counsel, in Chicago and New York, Arnold reviewed developments in the preliminary stage of the big project. The conferences in Chicago and New York concerned the lease agreement between the city and the company, the mortgage and debenture trust, the bonds, the official statement, the underwriting agreement, opinions of counsel, and letters of intent.

Arnold appeared before the city council Monday night. It did not adjourn, but recessed, subject to call.

Life in Arkansas

By J. C. TILLMAN
Associated Press Writer

An editorial writer for the Arkansas State College Herald has come up with a tongue-in-cheek suggestion to relieve parking problems on the Jonesboro campus.

Parking has been a problem on the campus for years, he says, and there is also a shortage of classroom space at the college.

To him the solution was simple—drive-in classrooms.

The writer said he got the idea from a disgruntled dean who commented, "These students would drive right into the classroom if we'd let them, rather than walk a couple of blocks."

All that would be needed, the Herald writer said, would be a platform for the teacher and space for 100 cars.

"According to my calculation," he said, "car speakers wouldn't need to number more than 10, as the rest of a large class is largely asleep anyway."

He also notes that after-dark classes would be popular—so popular in fact that they probably would have to be limited, forcing some students to sign up for day classes.

Two Pine Bluff youths, Ron Hudgens and Gordon Theis have unique models of "Davy Crockett" hats. They were seen wearing live baby possums on their heads.

No doubt that a Texarkana city hall was being properly used the other night.

Going on at the same time were a city council meeting, planning commission and urban renewal sessions, and a Junior Red Cross meeting.

Members of Alpha Delta Pi sorority at the University of Arkansas were looking recently for a home for some unexpected guests—a cat and three kittens left on the sorority house doorstep.

Accompanying the kittens was a note, "Please give my cat a good home. We are moving to St. Louis and my daddy won't let us take Abner (the mother) along."

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Panels of judges are now busily viewing programs and performances that are candidates for television Emmy Awards, to be passed out 10 days from now on the annual television program.

Few viewers, including the judges selected by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, see as much television as any TV columnist.

If this columnist were to cast ballots in the 38 categories for excellence in the May 1965 to May 1966 output, the following would be among my choices:

Outstanding comedy series — "The Dick Van Dyke Show" — again.

Outstanding variety series — "The Andy Williams Show" — again.

Outstanding variety special — "The Julie Andrews Show."

Outstanding dramatic series — A toss-up between "Spy" and "The Fugitive," with the latter probably winning my vote because it has been able to sustain interest over four seasons.

Outstanding single dramatic program — An unenthusiastic vote for "Inherit the Wind," an adaptation of a Broadway play, in a season when dramatic programs were the rarest type of television entertainment.

Outstanding musical program — A tie between "Frank Sinatra: A Man and His Music" and "Color Me Bamba!"

Outstanding children's program — "Captain Kangaroo," for consistently over the years maintaining high standards and interesting its audience.

Outstanding single performance by an actor — Cliff Robertson in "The Game," on the Bob Hope Theater.

Outstanding single performance by an actress — Simone Signoret in "A Small Rebellion."

Outstanding performance by an actress in a comedy series — Lucille Ball, as usual.

Outstanding performance by an actor in a comedy series — Dick Van Dyke, also as usual.

I would skip the categories for outstanding continuing performances by actors and actresses since television is full of thoroughly professional, well-trained performers whose weekly work often disguises the well-worn character of their material.

In the news and documentary areas, I would give awards to all three networks for their excellent coverage of Pope Paul VI's visit to the United States, Los Angeles' station KTLA's coverage of the Watts riots and David Lowe's "KKK—The Invisible Empire" on "CBS Reports."

NBC will have a series of "Sportsman's Holiday" shows, starting June 19, in its Sunday afternoon spot during the warm weather months while "College Bowl" takes a holiday. It will be color film about hunting and fishing.

Young Originals

Candidly Casual

A WONDERFUL FASHION to live in from now through summer, any place any hour. The casual comfort and easy slowness flows from the brief sleeves into the walking flare of the gored skirt. This costume is designed for the woman whose figure is a little shorter and a little fuller. The trim little-tailored jacket completes the ensemble. Every Young Original has an exclusive Co-ordinator to help you decide upon fabric, color and accessories.

F-51 is in sizes 12½ to 26½, bust 33 to 47. Size 14½, bust 35, 3¾ yards of 35"; short sleeve jacket, 1¾ yards of 35".

Send $1 for the above pattern to:

YOUNG ORIGINALS (name of newspaper), P.O. Box 438A, Midtown Station, New York, N.Y. 10018. Print your full name, address, with zip code, pattern number and size. Add 25c for first-class handling.

Arkansan One of 2 Killed by Acid

GORDON, Tex. (AP)—Johnny Kale, 48, of Helena, Ark., and a Mississippi man were burned to death by sulphuric acid Thursday when a freight train derailed near here, the Texas Highway Patrol said.

The other victim was Charles Jones, 56, of Clarksdale. Both victims were described by officers as transients.

The acid spilled on the men from two tank cars that flipped over after jumping the tracks.

Cleanup Week Proved Timely

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Some time ago the Junior Chamber of Commerce named this "paint up, clean up week" in Vancouver.

Little did it know this would be the week the Union of Outside Workers — the garbage collectors, street cleaners and others — would pick to go on strike.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

Youth Asked For It!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help US! this newspaper.

Almost The Commonest Problem

Dear Helen: This problem is not only mine but also my steady boyfriend's who is helping me write this letter and probably that of many other young couples.

Something uncontrollable happened to us. So far we've stopped ourselves, because both of us have high moral values and we want to wait for marriage. But we aren't ready for marriage yet, and we're so in love we don't know how we can possibly wait.

We have talked about this a lot and have tried several things like being with a crowd and going more places where we are not alone. We even tried staying away from each other. Nothing worked. Making up just leads to making out, as you probably know. And our make-out gets heavier all the time.

Please help, and hurry! — One Plus One Equals Three

Dear One: If you would stop yourselves in time, then you must stop the heavy make-out, because when petting starts, reason flies out the car window.

Though both of you worry, limits must always be made by the girl, and she can establish them much easier if she remembers the future is more important than a fleeting thrill. As one girl wrote me, "we overcame these wild urges by asking ourselves, 'If we were parents, think how awful it would be if we couldn't trust our kids.'"

And another girl said, "When you go too far before marriage it is a miserable, degrading thing, especially if you're in love. That's why so many couples who 'go all the way' break up. You hate yourself first, and then you start hating your partner. . . And if you marry him, as I did later, it takes years to break through that guilt complex. Some couples never do. You keep right on feeling sneaky and unclean."

Remember too, that even though you think it's "forever," this emotion you feel may not last. And then the barriers will be down for the next time, and thenext and the next. Do you want that kind of life?

There are many, many arguments against premarital sex, and only one argument in favor: Passion. Seems a shame that this single wild world so often overrules all those sane and reasonable ones — and if wouldn't if the girls would only realize the decision is yours; you can't turn a boy on and expect him not to catch fire. — H.

On Nylons For School

Dear Helen: Read your article about nylon mortality rate in Junior hi and High school. There are many synthetic fibers: Rayon, nylon, orlon, teflon, etc. The ladies stocking industry may be using an improper fiber. — Consulting Engineer.

Dear Engineer: True, true: why don't you start researching the subject? They have perfect ed frying pans that don't stick; surely SOMEONE can invent a sheer stocking that doesn't run or snag. But will they? It might ruin the industry. — H.

Dear Helen: I'm writing this in reply to the mother who said she wished fashion would give parents a break and bring bare legs. No! No! No!

Nylons make my legs look better, so I wear them everyday to school. I've managed to make each pair last a week or more because I take good care of them. Nylons are getting cheaper too — I get mine at the supermarket, and with the money I save, I can buy a more expensive pair every month. Patterned nylons don't run so badly. I'm in favor of — Nylons For Ever!

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen Help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star.

Tax Returns Can Be Mailed Monday

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas taxpayers will be allowed to mail their returns Monday, even though the deadline under the law for making the first payment is May 15.

Roby Bearden, director of the Income Tax Division of the state Revenue Department, said the deadline extension was made because May 15 falls on a Sunday.

Taxpayers must pay half of their 1965 tax in the first payment, and the other half is due Nov. 15.

Thinks Conference Needed on Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma said today that another international conference will be needed eventually to restore peace to divided Laos.

Prince Souvanna in a Constitution Day speech declared: "As long as the Pathet Lao continue, with the help of foreigners, their 'war of national liberation,' there's slim hope to re-establish peace in Laos."

The Communist Pathet Lao faction is waging a guerrilla war against Souvanna's government forces with the help of North Viet Nam.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Deane D. Wallace of Little Rock was elected to the Red Cross national board of governors at the organization's convention here Wednesday.

Nation's Economic Loss From Traffic Accidents Increased $50 Million in Last Year

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Despite all the hullabaloo over highway safety, the Insurance Information Institute, reports that the nation's estimated economic loss from traffic accidents for the first two months of 1966 was $1.733 billion, up $50 million for the similar period last year.

At least you're not lonesome if you have so-called athlete's foot. Some 40 million Americans have some form of this ailment.

George Washington was no older than a shyness as stuffy as old-time history books made him appear. For example, he occasionally gave away lockets with a portrait of himself on the front and a mirror in back. The ladies so favored wore the lockets around their necks and used the mirror to see if their curls were in place.

Quotable notables: "How can you be expected to govern a country that has 246 kinds of cheese?" — Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Facts to amaze your bartender: An octopus has three hearts. You can now get your own face put on a wooden Indian statue carved by Ozark native sculptors.

It may depress you to learn that the $20-million luxury hotel Caesars' Palace, opening in Las Vegas, Nev., will have a men's room attendant named Marc Anthony and women's room attendant named Cleopatra. How about the bouncer? Well, he'll be called Brutus.

America's 18 million people over 65 spend some $36 billion a year — and some of it goes for dancing lessons as well as wheel chairs.

Test your smart teen-ager by seeing if he can solve this puzzle: "Ben is twice as old as Bill used to be when Ben happened to be as old as Bill is now. Bill is now 18 years old. How old is Ben?" Answer: Ben is 24.

Some 500 objects now orbit the earth, including dead satellites and fragments of rockets.

Bet you didn't know that a well-hit golf ball can leave the club at 135 miles an hour.

Nature note: A rat's incisors can grow five inches a year. That's why it has to know or die. Captive zoo animals usually live years longer than those which run wild.

Federal Grant to Harrison

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $200,000 federal grant to help Harrison, Ark., expand its water sewer systems was announced Wednesday by the Economic Development Administration.

The office of Rep. James Trimble, D-Ark., said the city would match the federal grant 50-50. The expansions would serve an industrial area, a farmers market, a new airport and the site of a proposed new technical school, Trimble said.

Equipment Didn't Exactly Fit

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The University of Michigan purchasing department got an invoice from the medical school's animal care unit, describing more than $500 in equipment purchases as:

"Hobart mixer, bench model A200 with 20 qt. S-S bowl, 8" flat beater and No. D wire whip; Hobart mixer bowl, 12 qt., S-S No. E dough arm, 1 2qt., and splash cover S-S."

The university said its purchasing department simply made out the voucher for "miscellaneous kitchen tools."

Service News

Major Paul C. Lawrence
RENO, Nev. — Major Paul C. Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Lawrence of Hope, has completed the rigorous U. S. Air Force survival and special training course conducted by the Air Training Command at Stead AFB, Nev.

Major Lawrence, a D-121 Super Constellation pilot, received combat-type escape and evasion training for survival under adverse climatic conditions and hostile environments.

The major is being assigned to Otis AFB, Mass., with the Air Defense Command which protects the U.S. against enemy air attack.

Major Lawrence was commissioned upon completion of Officer Candidate School in 1952.

A graduate of Castle Heights Military Academy in McMinnville, Tenn., he received his B. S. Degree from the University of Arkansas.

His wife Jane, is the daughter of Mrs. E. H. Cook of 908 Olympian Circle, SW, Vienna, Va.

Man Killed

POCAHONTAS, Ark. (AP) — Charles Howard, 54, of Pocahontas, was killed Wednesday in an accident at the Flagg State Co. here.

Authorities said Howard slipped and fell into a power saw.

Flowers Make a Storybook Wedding

Flowers are as much a part of a wedding as are the bridal fashions and should be in keeping with the gowns. Bridesmaid's gown (left) in blue crepe has embroidered bodice. Bouquet of daisies, carnations and roses is coordinated with the bridesmaid's coronet. Bridal gown (right) in peau de soie has a beaded bodice and detachable train. Bridal bouquet is of white roses and daisies. Fan-shaped bouquet of daisies and roses are a perfect complement to the demure bridal gown (center) in quilted brocade with chapel train and flared sleeves beaded with pearls. Gowns are by Alfred Angelo. Floral arrangements are by Florists' Transworld Delivery experts.

bouquets are recommended by floral experts to complement the new summer gowns. Daisies and carnations make a demure bridal bouquet. Roses and miniature ivy leaves are a popular choice for a sophisticated look. A few light, pastel blossoms, color-matched to attendants' gowns may be mixed with the traditional white flowers — a European custom gaining favor in this country.

Flowers for members of the wedding party, the ceremony and the reception should have a single theme — keyed to the season of the year and the formal or informal "personality" of the wedding.

Your florist will wish to see the church, home or garden where the wedding ceremony will be held. The floral theme should extend to all parts of the area so that each guest will enjoy the fresh beauty of your wedding flowers.

Flowers for the reception, say the experts, should be keyed to the color of the bridesmaids' gowns.

For your honeymoon corsage, choose a single large flower or a cluster of small blossoms. The natural look of simple corsages designed without ribbons is another floral custom imported from Europe. The flowers should be pinned on your costume with stems down to complete the natural effect.

fitted, with long trains flaring gracefully from slim skirts.

Creme and peau de soie are popular fabrics for the bride and her attendants and a new-comer to the June bridal party is a lightweight quilted brocade.

Sunday-Monday at Saenger

Ed Sullivan, playing himself, asks Debbie Reynolds, cast as Sister Ann, to appear on his television show in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Singing Nun." heartwarming drama of a nun with a great gift for music. Looking on are Greer Garson and Agnes Moorehead, with the cast including Ricardo Montalban, Chari Heston and Katharine Ross. The picture, filmed in Panavision and color, features the world-famous Nun's Music.

Coming Soon to Saenger

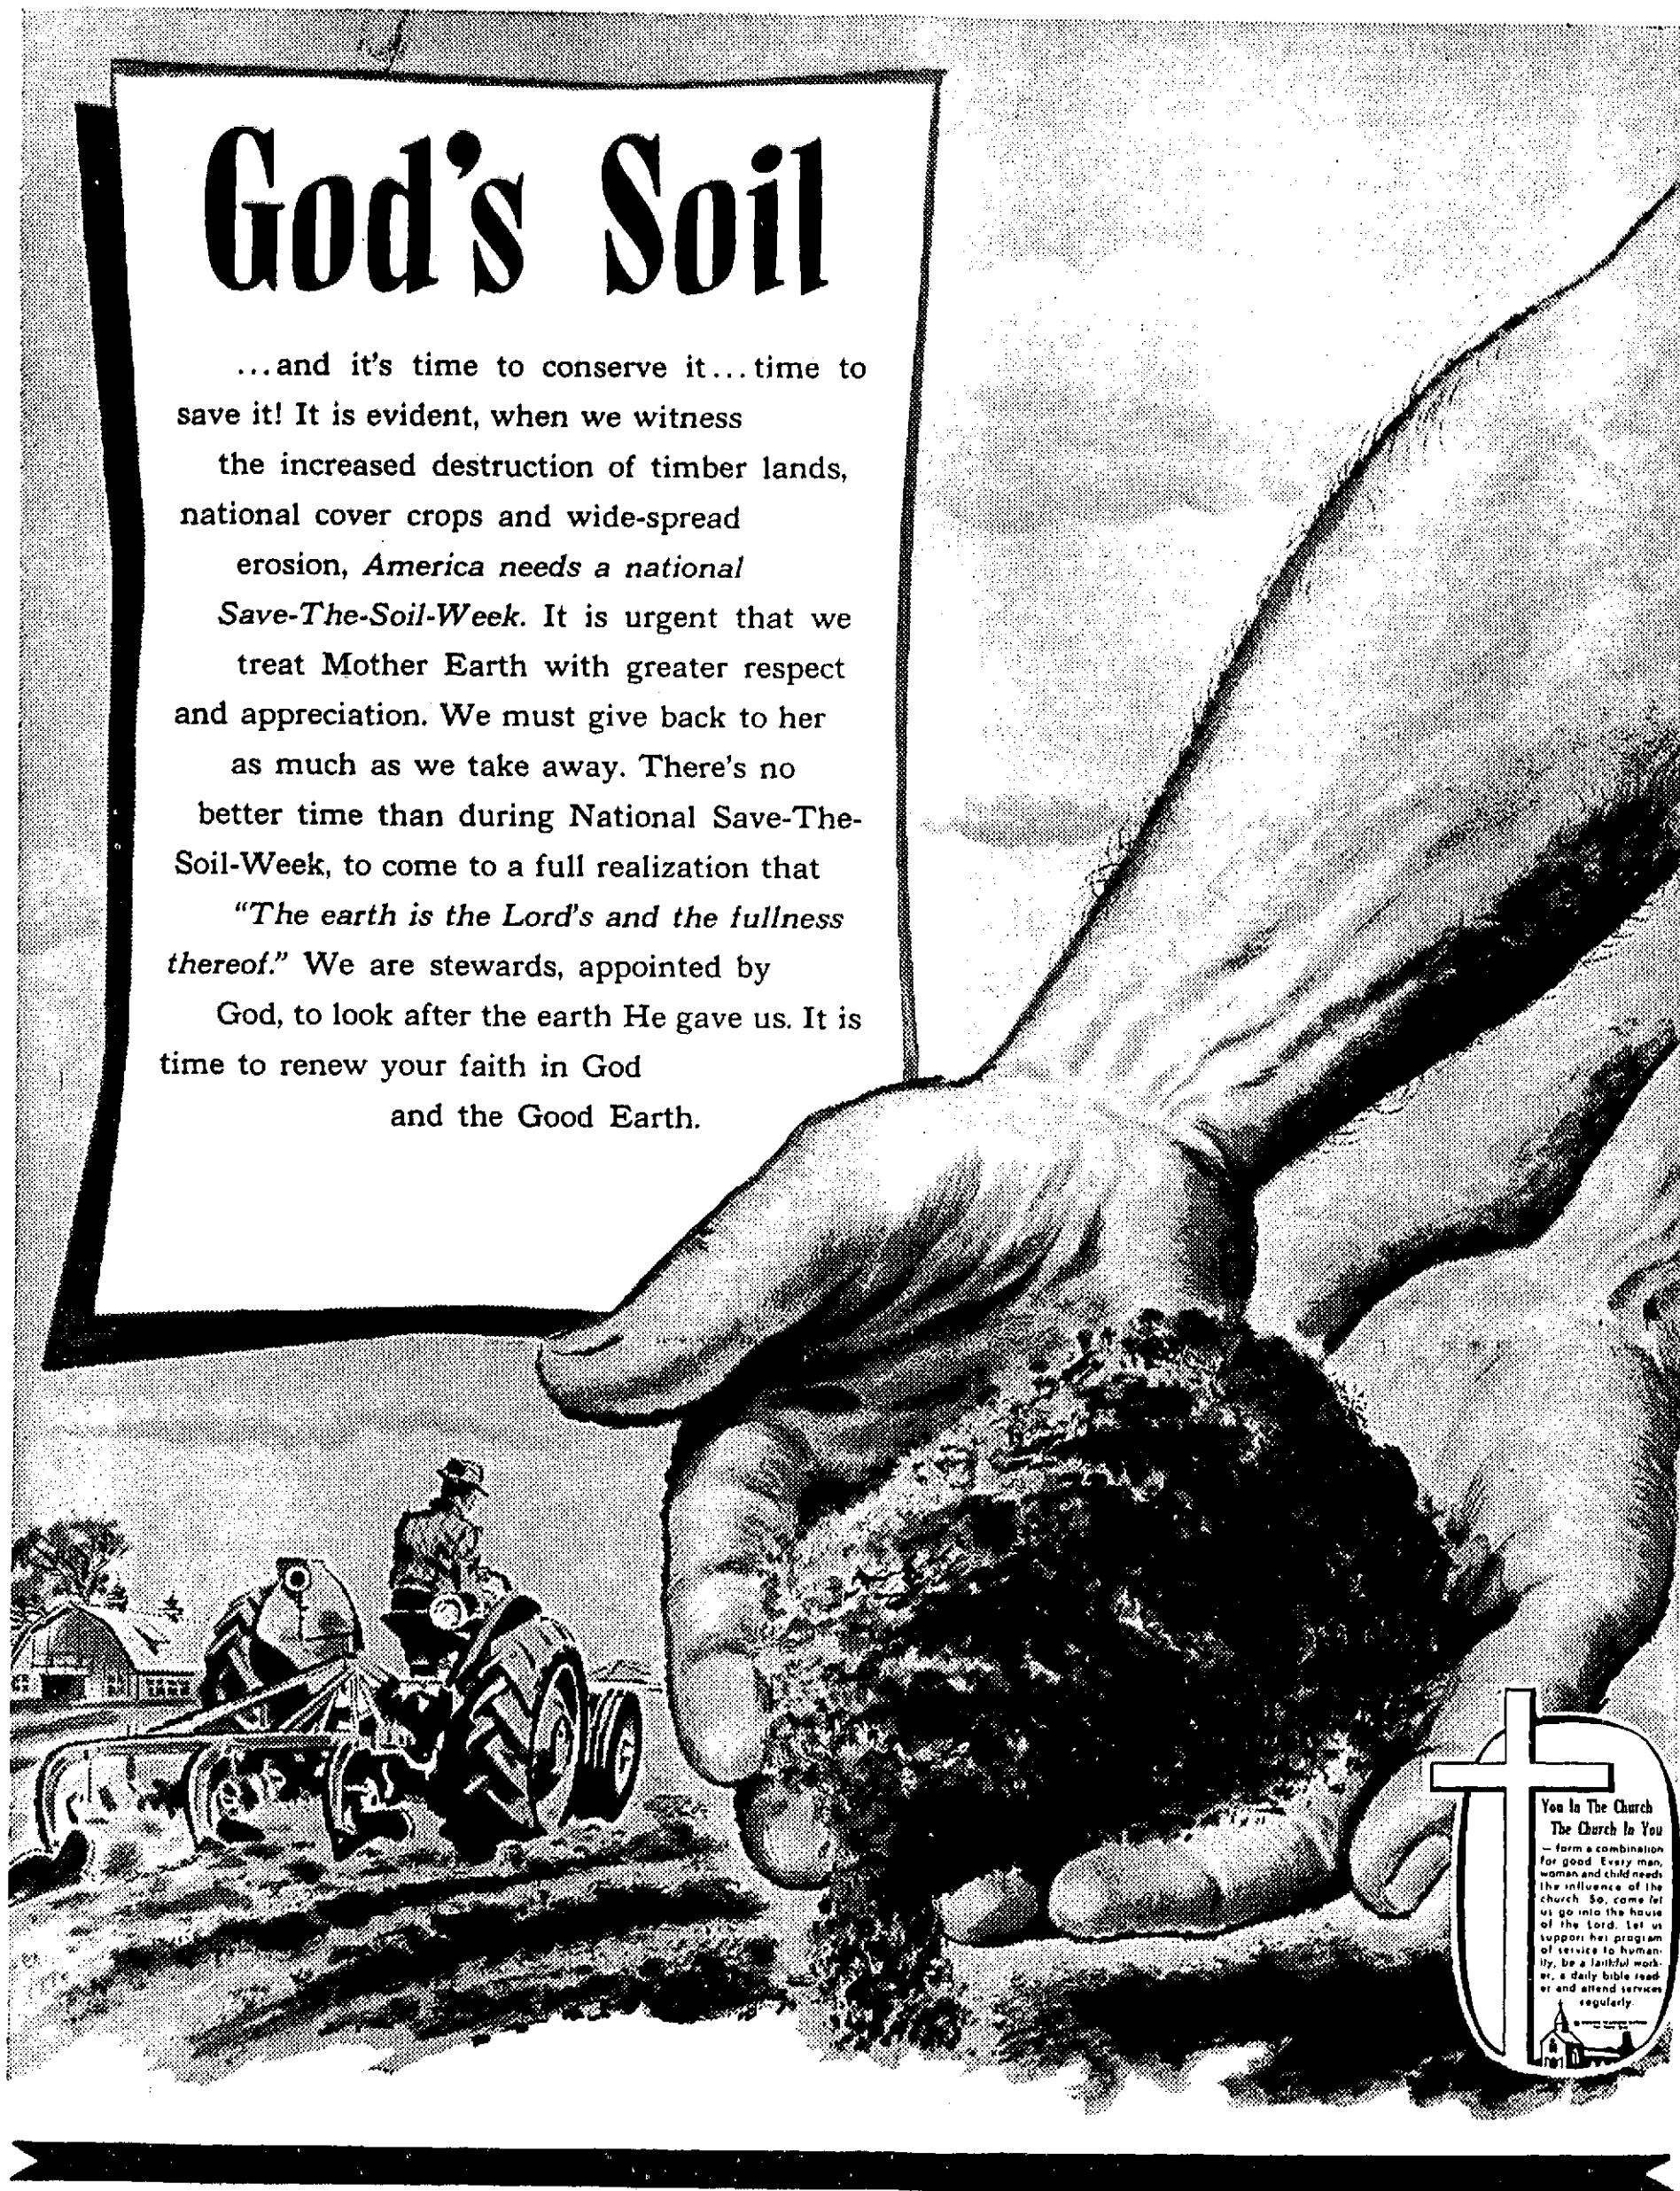

Brigitte Bardot and Jeanne More

HEAR THESE WORDS

Worship In Church Every Week

God's Soil

...and it's time to conserve it...time to save it! It is evident, when we witness the increased destruction of timber lands, national cover crops and wide-spread erosion, America needs a national Save-The-Soil-Week. It is urgent that we treat Mother Earth with greater respect and appreciation. We must give back to her as much as we take away. There's no better time than during National Save-The-Soil-Week, to come to a full realization that "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." We are stewards, appointed by God, to look after the earth He gave us. It is time to renew your faith in God and the Good Earth.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Extractions or Poor Bite Can Affect Jaw Hinge

BY WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE:

Last December I had a lower right wisdom tooth pulled and ever since then the hinge joint on that side has been very sore. Sometimes it seems to get well but then it gets tight and sore again. When I chew, the joint makes cracking noises. Could you tell me what it is and what I should do about it?—Mrs. Harold B.

A—This is not an uncommon complaint after extraction of lower wisdom teeth, especially if the extraction is a difficult one. If the tooth is impacted (embedded in bone), or in an odd position in the bone, or if the mouth is small and the opening is narrow as in some petite female jaws, extraction of lower wisdom teeth can be a troublesome and complicated problem.

In the effort to gain access to the angle of the jaw where the wisdom tooth lies buried, the mouth may be pried open beyond its capacity, and this puts the hinge joint under considerable strain. This stretching of the joint injures membranes, muscles and tendons that help form the joint and can cause the symptoms Mrs. B. describes.

Most joint problems such as pain over the joint, ear pain, headaches, clicking of the

In the effort to gain access to the angle of the jaw where the wisdom tooth lies buried, the mouth may be pried open beyond its capacity, and this puts the hinge joint under considerable strain. This stretching of the joint injures membranes, muscles and tendons that help form the joint and can cause the symptoms Mrs. B. describes.

Most joint problems such as pain over the joint, ear pain, headaches, clicking of the joint, snapping, restricted movement, etc., usually come from biting dysfunction or disharmony; teeth don't come together properly. But other causes, such as infection, arthritis, tumors, gout and trauma are not uncommon.

Even though Mrs. B. has associated her symptoms with extraction of the wisdom tooth, it's possible that her bite is the real or an aggravating cause of her condition. She could possibly get some relief from bite adjustment, grinding high spots on teeth so that they meet harmoniously.

Immediate relief of joint symptoms can usually be effected by application of hot wet packs on the side of the face in front of the ear, soft diet, rest and aspirin. But this treatment may not produce a cure.

It's not wise to let this condition go untreated for long because acute joint difficulties are somewhat easier to cope with than chronic joint problems which tend to become more involved and more complicated.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

The camel originated in North America about 40 million years ago and then spread to South America and to Asia. Camels have been known to go without water for 17 days and survive. They can carry a load of 500 pounds 25 miles a day for three days without a drop of drinking water. The life span of a camel averages between 30 and 40 years.

West opened the jack of spades. East covered with the queen and continued spades after South ducked. South won the third spade lead, meanwhile discarding a heart and diamond from dummy. Then he cashed three clubs and noted that East dropped the five of hearts. He tried diamonds next and discarded dummy's last club on the third diamond. East shed the eight of hearts.

South had planned to throw East in with a spade at this point but his count of the hand showed that East was sitting with three spades and one heart.

Could East have blanked the king of hearts? Of course, he could, decided genius South. He led a heart, went up with dummy's ace and ran off the rest of the tricks to make five no-trump.

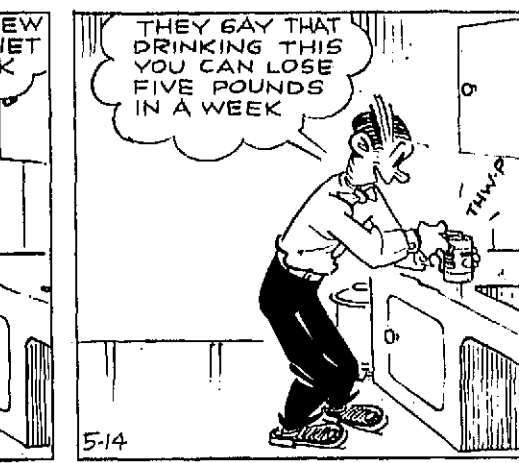

"Pretty good," chortled South.

'Celtics Will Be My Team'

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

By JERRY MILES

BOSTON—(NEA)—Ninety-seven games of professional basketball had exhausted Bill Russell to a point where only his reflexes controlled his body.

You knew he was acting on reflex because Bill Russell allowed other men to put words, then phrases and finally sentences into his mouth.

It is a once-a-year occurrence—if that—because Russell never has been forced to grope for words or explanations. He is a blunt man and words come easily when you don't care about images or offending people.

But at this particular moment the Boston Celtics had just won the championship of the world and Bill Russell, the man, had reverted to Bill Russell, the machine.

The newspaper and television guys were crammed five, six deep around him in a semi-circle. They asked the same dull questions Russell had heard since mid-October:

"You guys did it for Red, didn't you, Bill?"

A half shake of the head, a few words and the next question:

"This team had heart, didn't it, Bill?"

Another affirmative shake of the head. A few more mumbled words.

"How do you feel?"

Russell wearily looked up through a pair of glazed eyes. Exhaustion enveloped his body and, as he sat motionless, sweat dripped from his nose and chin into a little puddle on the floor.

The questioners were relentless. They had their man and, like a hunter with a trapped animal, would not let go.

"Do you plan any changes next year?"

"When will you start working on the draft?"

Bill Russell looked up, a vivid stare on his face. He clutched a bouquet of flowers (a gift from a fan), then lowered his head again and stared at the floor. He stared for a long while and finally the crowd understood and drifted to Sam Jones in another corner of the room.

Russell had been left to his flowers and his thoughts. It is difficult picturing this man as player-coach of the Celtics. The pace in the National Basketball Association is almost inhuman. Some have tougher times adjusting to it than others.

Next season Bill Russell inherits a dynasty that is cracking up and if it collapses he, alone, will be blamed.

"I don't know how the pressure will affect me," Russell said. "Different men have different temperaments. Dolph Schayes and Richie Guerin were player-coaches. They reacted differently. All I know is that I plan to play 47 or 48 minutes a game. I also know the Celtics will be my team."

With Russell the player in the lineup for 47 or 48 minutes, Russell the coach will have an advantage and so will the Celtics.

As Frank Ramsey said, "He's his own best player."

Padwe

LOS ANGELES—(NEA)—The Boston Celtics needed a big man to replace Red Auerbach as coach and they got one in 6-9 Bill Russell.

Russell's college coach Phil Woolpert, who had Bill four years at the University of San Francisco when the Dons won two national championships, agrees with Auerbach that Russell was the right choice.

"No doubt about it," says Woolpert, now the coach at the University of San Diego, "any time a player takes over as coach it's going to be tough, but Bill is better equipped than most players to do it. He has the desire and pride and always works hard. As player-coach, Bill can ask his players to put out that extra effort because he's a real tiger out there on the court and everyone knows it."

Russell originally ruled himself out as Auerbach's replacement, claiming he had no desire to coach.

"I know he said he wasn't interested," Woolpert continued, "but he always has enjoyed it. Even when he was at USF we got him a job coaching a playground team and he ate it up. More important, the kids loved him."

Some question whether Russell has the disposition for the trying position of player-coach.

"Oh, yes, I think he has the temperament to handle it," Woolpert replied. "I've played golf with him and I remember one time when he hit 10 balls out and it didn't even faze him. He has the patience."

Russell is an intelligent person but, according to Woolpert, had a tendency at one time to take it easy in the classroom at San Francisco.

"I almost dropped him from the team," Woolpert said. "He was a little discouraged and wasn't studying. I talked with him and I had Ollie Matson (Matson was a football star at San Francisco) talk to him, but the results weren't too favorable."

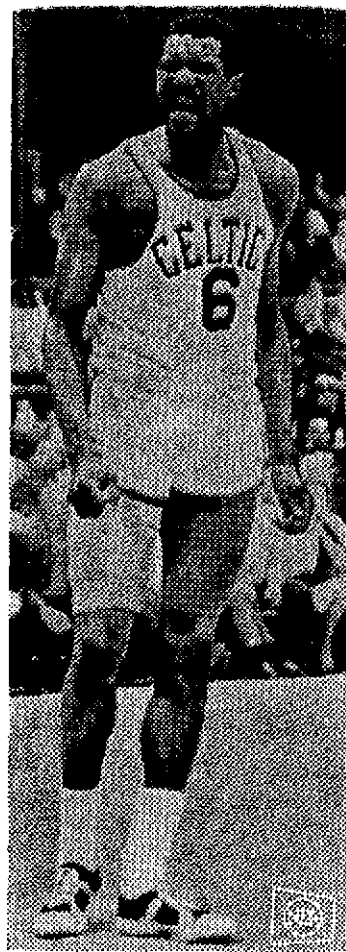

"In desperation, he was that close to being out. I went to his father, a factory worker with no formal education at all but a wonderful man who was tremendously interested in his boy. His father took over and gave Bill the business. From that point Bill became a good student and never was in any type of academic trouble again."

Woolpert says Russell was easy to coach in college, although the two did have one disagreement and again it almost led to his dismissal from the squad.

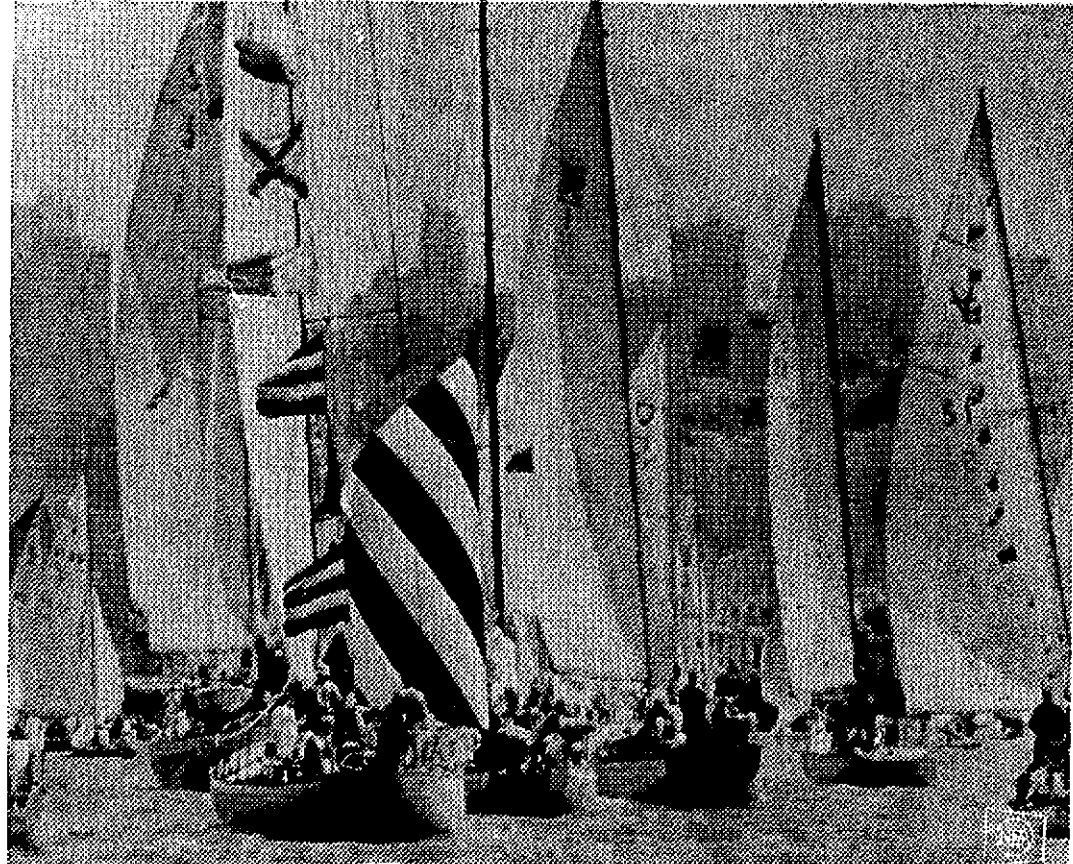

"We had taught Bill to shoot free-throws a particular way and he became a better than average free-throw shooter. But one day he decided he was going to shoot them the way he wanted to when I was working at the other end of the practice floor."

"However, I saw him. I told him in no uncertain terms that if he threw one more ball up at the hoop like he had been instructed not to do, he would turn in his suit. He said he would not do it again and I know he didn't."

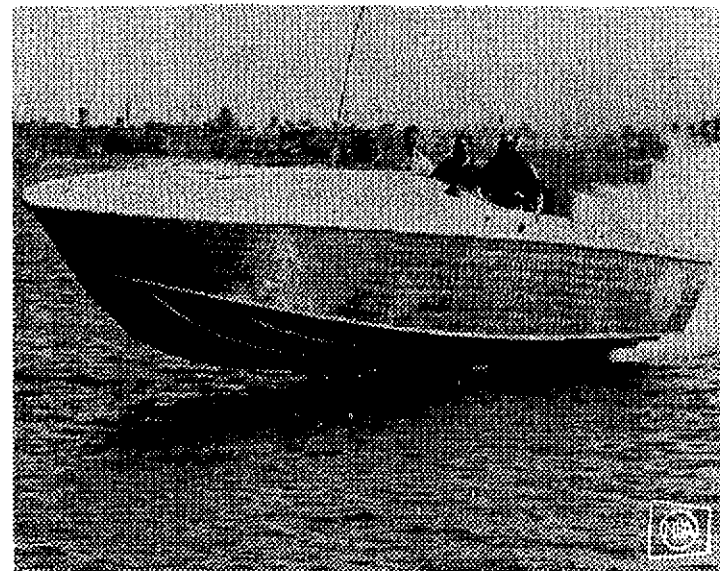

"That was in the middle of his junior year. I'll guarantee you I would have kept my word and cut him. It wasn't so much because I wanted him to do it our way, but basketball is played by five players. I couldn't afford to let Bill disobey the coaching instructions which his teammates had faith in. If we had let Bill do the thing his way it could have led to trouble."

BILL RUSSELL

SAIL HO!—Anybody seen a traffic cop? A cop isn't needed, however, as every boat is headed in the same direction. The event is the annual San Francisco yacht parade on San Francisco Bay.

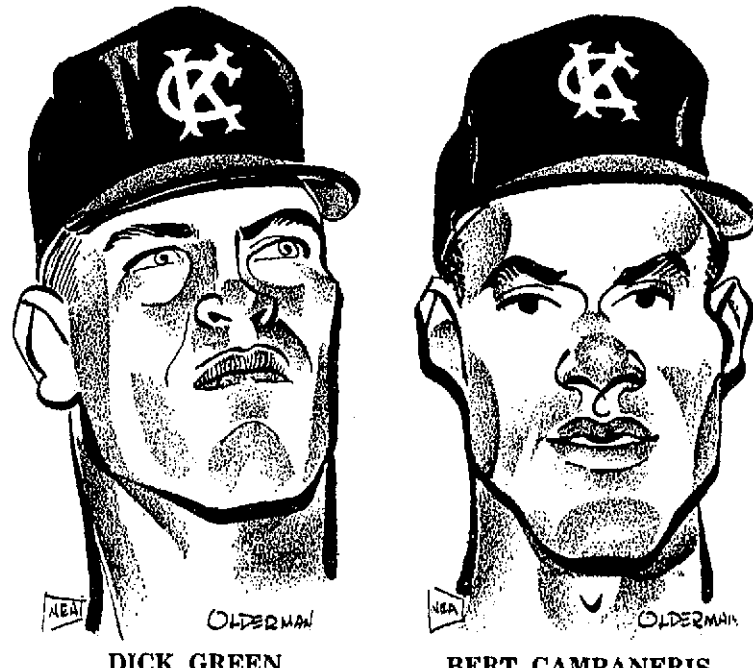

COOKING WITH GAS—Miami engineer Jim Wynne has hooked up two aircraft gas-turbine engines to the Whistler. Driving propellers below the 32-foot aluminum hull of Wynne's design, the installation is the first tried in racing. Speeds to 70 miles per hour are estimated.

Green With Envy

For being the most coveted player on the Kansas City roster, Dick Green was cut $2,000 in salary this year. "It was either take what they offered," shrugged the young second baseman, "or not report to spring training on time. But wait'll I put the good year together. They'll give me what I want or they'll have to come find me."

And so life is roffy for a player who has spent his entire baseball life in the Kansas City organization. It's a tossup whether Green or Bert Campaneris is the best ballplayer on the club. Manager Alvin Dark won't split them out. Johnny Keane of the Yankees leans to Campaneris. In trade talk everybody wants Green.

"The trouble with playing on a last-place club," says Green, "is concentrating on baseball. Especially hitting. I know it affected me, and that's why I dropped off last year (to .232). Sure, as an individual, you want to do well, but you're just one and the rest of them (he waved around the field at the other As), they don't care if they lose. They make too many errors. They expect to."

DICK GREEN

The one place Green says he doesn't have any trouble pumping himself up to play is Yankee Stadium. "When I was a kid in Rapid City, S.D.," he says, "that's all I dreamed about—playing for the Yankees." So why's he with Kansas City? "They're the only team that showed any interest in me."

Campaneris, who forms the double-play combination with Green for the Athletics, actually started out as a catcher in his native Cuba and came into organized baseball with Daytona Beach in 1962 as a receiver. While there, however, he pulled his first stint at playing all nine innings at nine different positions in one ball game, a feat which he repeated last year in Kansas City at owner Charley Finley's urging. Bert's even an accomplished pitcher, having twirled 13 innings in the minors. He throws a slider, curve and change-up. Spitter? "I no understand."

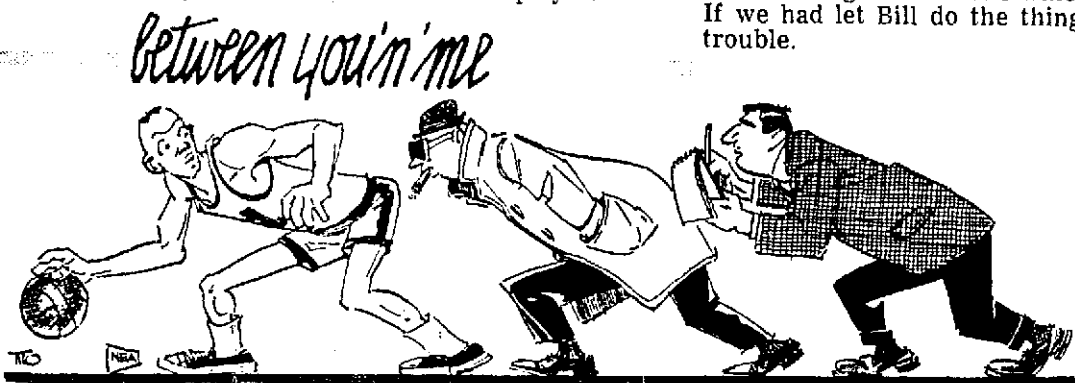

In fact, having a conversation with the 22-year-old expatriate is a little like discussing the spitter with Whitey Ford. You're not quite sure you're getting through. His cousin is Jose Cardenal, the swift outfielder of the California Angels, and they're probably the two fastest men in the American League. When they're not playing winter ball in Venezuela, they share the same apartment in El Paso, Tex. Why El Paso? "Lot of people speak Spanish there."

You'd think that with Campaneris at short and Green at second, the As would have the smoothest play around the middle bag, but actually they haven't really adjusted to each other yet.

Between you'n'me, Green complains, "We have no communication. Because we have so many other Spanish-speaking players on the club, he never gets to practice English. I wave at him with my hands. And that's about it."

MATTER OF FORM—Dodger pitcher Sandy Koufax is not only fast, but picturesque as well. His form and precise follow-through help keep his pitches on target.

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Sometimes how a writer researches a story can be as intriguing as the story itself.

For instance, in preparing his series on the Recruiting Underground, it was vital that Sandy Padwe of Newspaper Enterprise Association make contact with Freddie the Spook, the kinglypin of the college basketball talent scouts.

There is a Freddie the Spook, of course. There is even an address for him in Astoria, Long Island. But Freddie lives in a furnished room without a telephone, and he's never home.

The only way you get in touch with him is by telegram or telephone. Still, he prefers to call you. Freddie has a habit of patting his pocket where he keeps his book of phone numbers and tells people he can always contact you.

Sandy had to send a telegram from Manhattan on one side of the East River to Astoria on the other to get Freddie to call him. They made a date to meet in the NEA offices, but Freddie chickened out at the last moment. He then called Sandy and talked his head off, then called back the next day to see if the writer had enough material.

Nailing down the ex-recruiter, who now prepares scouting reports that can be bought by all schools, involved more intrigue. Padwe got a phone call one day at 4 p.m.

"Be on the northwest corner of 40th Street and Eighth Avenue at a quarter to seven," the voice said curtly. "Look for a blue Chevrolet. H. will be available for a 'chat.'"

So Sandy made the rendezvous, was picked up on schedule and driven to a basketball tournament in the Bronx, where all the "bird dogs" had gathered to look over the high school kids.

H. was an entirely different type than Freddie the Spook. He lives on Park Avenue in a spacious apartment. Sandy made another date to meet him in a restaurant chosen by H.

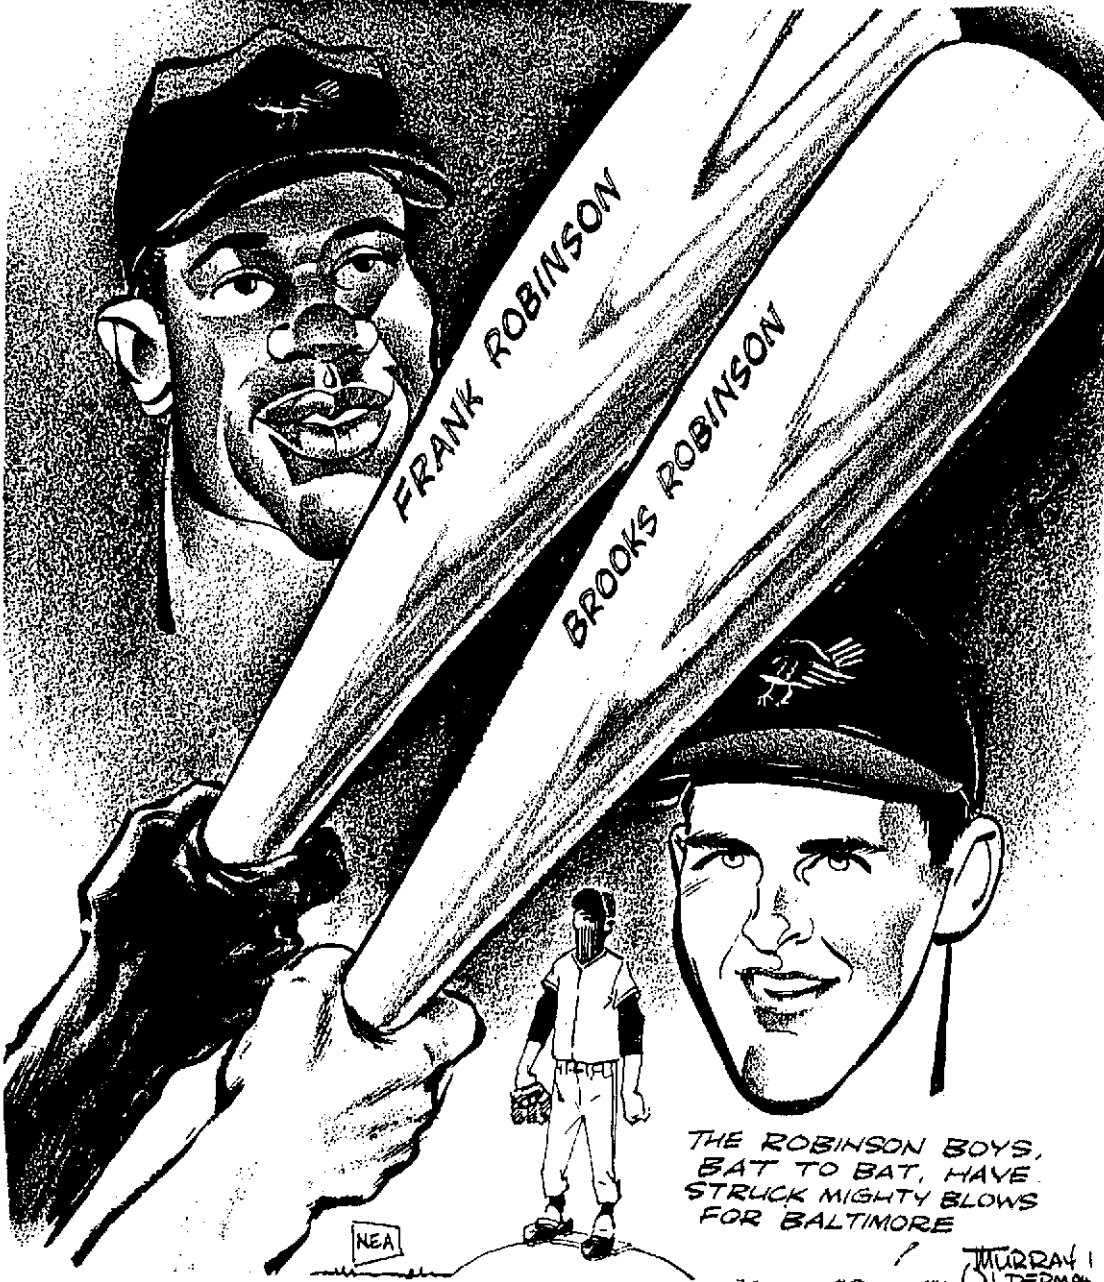

"It was on Madison Avenue," says Sandy, "and we were amongst New York's most fashionable ladies, who were lunching between trips to the Madison Avenue art galleries."

"It wasn't a bad interview, except for one thing—he was 20 minutes late and wasn't wearing a tie. Perfect casting."

Before either of the parties tracked down by Padwe would consent to do any talking, they did a character check on him through Herman Masin of Scholastic Coach Magazine, probably the most influential writer on high school sports in this country.

They specified their full names were not to be used if they were going to co-operate.

Since writing the series, Sandy has started a correspondence with John LeCarre. Wants to know if he thinks Richard Burton would be the right type to play the lead in his opus, too.

THE ROBINSON BOYS, BAT TO BAT, HAVE STRUCK MIGHTY BLOWS FOR BALTIMORE

Bobby Dobbs' Six-Day Ordeal

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

EL PASO, Tex.—(NEA)—While Paul Dietzel was busy packing the family trailer, West Point's athletic emissaries arrived at Texas Western University quite embarrassed and equally desperate.

When they left, they were even more embarrassed and desperate.

West Point was after an old grad named Bobby Dobbs to reconstruct the ruins that Paul Dietzel had so suddenly left behind.

"It was," said Dobbs, "the toughest decision of my life. For six days I thought it over. I've always considered the Army job the finest in the country. The strong personal desire and strong personal temptation was there."

"But I couldn't just pick up and leave. The timing was all wrong. We were in spring practice. I felt I couldn't leave the team and university in that situation."

"Texas Western didn't put any pressure on me. That's the way people are down here. If I had chosen to take the job, I think I would have left with very little criticism."

Bobby Dobbs was the logical choice to coach Army. He was a fullback at West Point in 1943 and again in 1944 when the Cadets won the national championship.

For three years (1952-54) he returned to the Point, coaching the backfield as an assistant to Earl Blaik.

It was a talented group Blaik had assembled — Dobbs, Dietzel, Jack Green (now head coach at Vanderbilt), George Blackburn (head coach at Virginia) and Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers.

"During the 1954 season when we were going to play Pennsylvania," Dobbs said, "Col. Blaik was taken ill and he appointed me coach for the game. It was an honor to be selected from that group of coaches. But there was something else involved. From that day, I knew I wanted to be head coach at Army."

In 1955, Dobbs moved to the University of Tulsa as head coach. He had started his playing career there before the war intervened. Dobbs remained at Tulsa for five years, then coached Calgary in the Canadian League before coming to Texas Western to inherit a team that lost all its games in 1964.

Last season, Texas Western finished 7-3-1 including an upset victory over TCU in the Sun Bowl.

Army was impressed, and when Dietzel decided to leave for South Carolina, Dobbs was one of the key prospects.

Back at West Point, after Dobbs had announced his decision, Col. Raymond Murphy, the director of athletics, was very understanding.

"Dobbs had a tough decision to make, and Army is proud and pleased with him as a man who did the right thing by honoring his contract at Texas Western."

"Embarrassing" might not be the proper word for the whole affair.

Training For The Unskilled

Several weeks ago, committee of Republicans which included several candidates for Congress proposed that tax relief be given industries adopting intramural training programs to teach young employees new skills. Now Senator Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.) has made the same proposal to Congress and Congressional Candidate George Bush of Texas, son of former Senator Prescott Bush, says the former Health, Education and Welfare Secretary is plagiarizing GOP campaign material.

Actually, the idea is not original either with the Republicans or Senator Ribicoff. Many industrial employers used to do this as a matter of self-interest, and they never asked or received tax credit for carrying on the work. The practice has been hit hard in the last 30 years by the increasing barrage of laws dealing with minimum wages, child labor, Social Security, employer liability and a host of other matters.

In the vast majority of cases, it has become too complicated and expensive for an employer to put inexperienced persons on his payroll at the rates required by federal law. This situation has been made to order for automation, which has made rapid gains in many industries simply because the employment and training of young and unskilled workers has become almost prohibitive.

If Congress acts and industry accepts the challenge, it should be a big step toward reducing the number of young people without experience or training in the labor market. At practically no cost, an effective new weapon would be forged in the war on poverty. — Huntington (W. Va.) Herald-Dispatch

Double Taxation
A New Orleans physician has said in blunt terms what has been said before in a lot of medical and government jargonese — that smoking is suicidal.

"It is a form of suicide," said Dr. Allen Ochsner, in an address to a southwestern surgical conference. "It is the only thing I know of that people pay for to create a premature death for themselves."

He might have added that one has to pay city, state and federal taxes on it also. — Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser

Immovable Object
Batman has been nominated for an Emmy award, according to an announcement by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences. Holy kudos!

We knew it would come to this. Some day a magnificent and noble man will come along, capable of flying over buildings, of lifting staggering weights, and of conquering bad with good. The ultimate test of his strength will come when he undertakes to improve the TV schedule. — Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution

What's Cooking
If you put cornbread in the oven, cornbread is what comes out. A great many people do not believe this rule applies also to college students. Lending Closet Very Popular

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Ft. Benning recently opened a new hospitality house, and one of its features — the lending closet — has become increasingly popular.

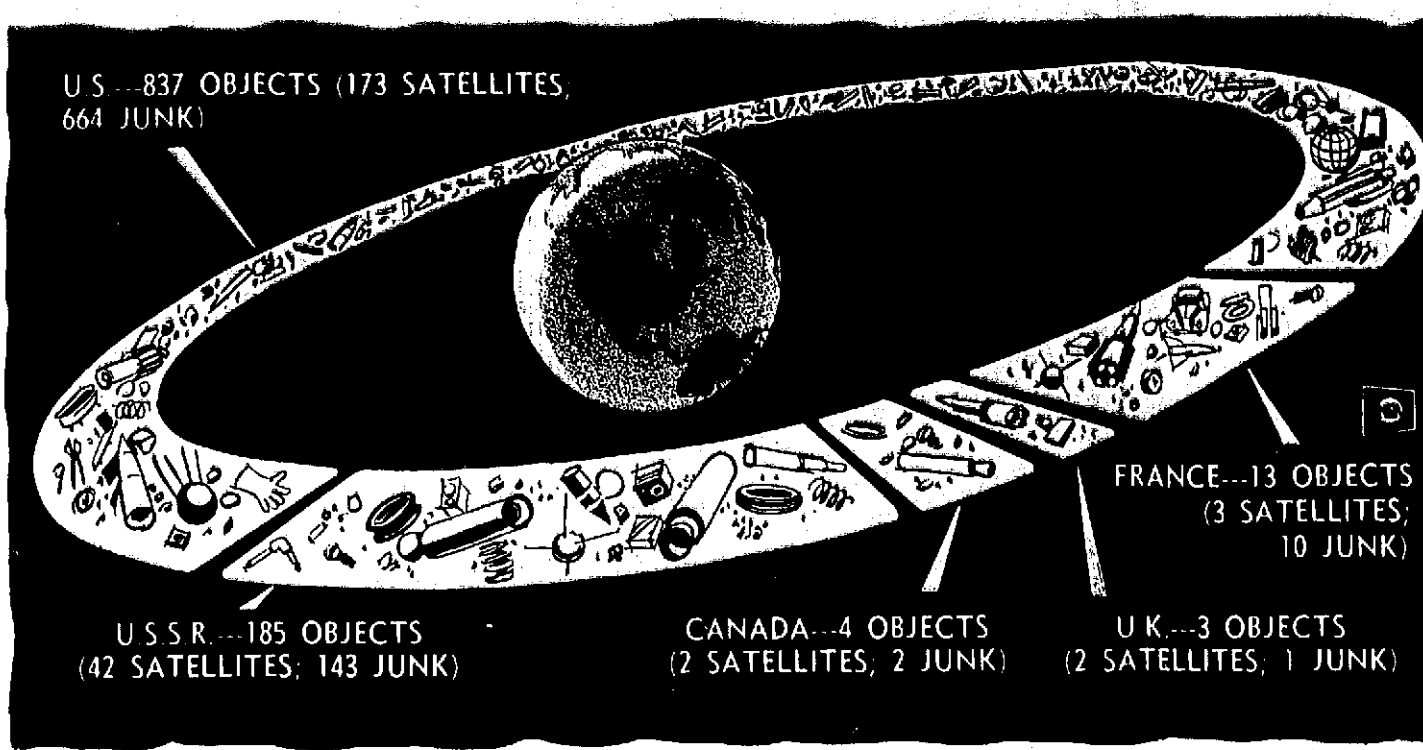

For military personnel who arrive before their furniture, the lending closet does out dishes, cutlery, sheets, blankets, glasses and other housekeeping necessities for up to two weeks.

Massive Jams Follow Strike

ROME (AP) — A nationwide bus and streetcar strike caused massive traffic jams today in Italy's major cities.

The streets of Milan, Turin and Rome were jammed as workers and shoppers rolled out every available private car.

Communist and non-Communist unions joined in the strike in an attempt to force resumption of stalled contract talks.

THAT BIG JUNKYARD IN THE SKY—As of the end of April 1966, NASA tracking computers counted 1,061 known earth objects floating around in space. Of these, 19 are deep-space or planet probes orbiting the sun (10 Russian; 9 American). Of the other 1,042 objects in earth orbit, 222 are satellites belonging to five countries, as shown in News-Graphic above. The rest are classified as "junk"—rocket casings, heat shields, ejection springs, separation bolts and at least one nonmetallic object, the glove left behind by astronaut Edward White last year. The First Lady won't have to launch a space beautification program, however, because all these satellites and debris will eventually be pulled closer and closer to the atmosphere and incinerate themselves. NASA estimates that 129 American and 598 Russian pieces of junk have burned up since the start of the space age.

Open House at Remodeled Hempstead County Library From 2-5 p.m. on Sunday

By MARY ANTA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Open House at the newly remodeled and expanded Hempstead County Library will be held tomorrow from 2 to 5 p.m. with everyone invited. A recently completed addition to the library, 64 feet by 40 feet, was built under the Library Construction Act at a total cost of $53,750. Federal funds provided 60 per cent of the cost, and the Hope Water and Light Plant, $20,000. The remaining $1,500 came from other local funds.

So much for dollar-and-cents statistics. What is the result? A well-lighted, spacious library with books to satisfy the appetite of every hungry reader. Light beige is the restful color choice for walls, ceiling, and furniture. Besides the usual-type library tables and chairs, there is a small round table with upholstered chairs that lends an added air of pleasantness to the surroundings.

Many rows of new shelving can be seen, and of particular interest is the section for children with low shelves that are handy for tots. These have book dividers to assist the youngsters in taking out and putting back paper books on the shelves unaided by adults.

A lounge for employees of the library is something new on the south wing. A small refrigerator, sink, and stove provide convenience. In this area are also work tables for repairing books and a typewriter, as well as comfortable lounge chairs.

The Hempstead County Library was organized February 15, 1940; this was combined with the Hope Public Library which was located at the Hope City Hall. Miss Elsie Weisenberger was the librarian. The first Library Board was: Charles Reynerson, A. B. Weatherington, J. I. Liebling, Mrs. J. A. Henry, Mrs. Joe Jackson, and Mrs. John Wallace. That year the library had 5,000 books.

A little over 25 years later, on June 30, 1965, the bookstock had reached 52,000 and the circulation was 153,644. The Hempstead County Library building was dedicated July 20, 1948. The late Dr. G. E. Cannon and Mrs. Cannon donated the land, and the building was erected at an approximate cost of $40,000.

As supported for the library a one mill tax was passed by Hempstead County in 1948. A one mill tax was passed by Nevada County in 1958, and Hempstead and Nevada Counties joined together to form the Hempstead-Nevada Regional Library. Library service was begun to Nevada County in 1959.

The year 1959 also saw the beginning of the Bookmobile, a service to people in outlying areas that is carried to them three times a week. The Bookmobile goes to parts of Hempstead, Nevada, and Polk Counties. In January 1966 a new air conditioned Bookmobile was started.

Have you ever browsed through the Memorial Shelves of books at the library? Not only will you find much good reading there, but also between the covers are names which will arouse fond memories. And the topics range from religion to non-fiction to fiction.

One of the prettiest aspects of the Hempstead County Library is the named which is spotlighted on the east wall, facing South Elm Street, every night. It is most striking, and it is also symbolic; for light stands for the freedom of thought best emphasized in a free public library like our own.

Helicopter Fleet to Be Increased

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is increasing its helicopter fleet in South Viet Nam to give ground troops even greater mobility in the face of rising Communist infiltration.

A month from now, officials said, there will be close to 1,800 helicopters in Viet Nam — an increase of about 200 from the most recent total.

At the same time, the officials said, additional helicopter companies will be formed in the United States. Presumably, some of these eventually will be sent to Viet Nam.

Authorities forecast that helicopter operation will be relatively unhampered in the imminent rainy season, although the bad weather is expected to cut down flights by jet fighters.

One source forecast that helicopters will be able to function about 75 per cent of the time during the monsoon season which lasts throughout the summer.

With fighter support likely to become spotty because of weather, the firepower represented by helicopter gunships probably will assume extra importance during the rains.

The Communists, who have been building up men and supplies in the Viet Nam jungles and mountains for months, are generally expected to go on the offensive during the monsoon period.

American strategists are counting on their helicopter resources to enable U.S. and South Vietnamese forces to hit the Communists when they appear and to shatter and scatter those Red units before they can combine into bigger and more formidable formations.

Helicopters are important also in that they are used to bring up artillery into remote areas of battle. The big Chinook helicopter can lift a 105mm howitzer.

WCTU Watches Liquor Pouring

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Mrs. Fred J. WCTU headquarters is in Evanston. The liquor had been seized by police during recent raids.

Divorce Final After 39 Years

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — It took 39 years, but the Joseph Cavolos are finally divorced.

Mrs. Cavolo filed for divorce April 26, 1927. Although the case was continued to 1928 no further action was taken until Cavolo, now 65, filed an answer and cross-bill last January and was awarded a divorce.

Mrs. Cavolo's whereabouts are unknown.

Three Space Maneuvers Are Planned

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — During their three-day flight starting Tuesday, the Gemini 9 astronauts plan to execute three space rendezvous maneuvers similar to those that might have to be made on Project Apollo man-to-the-moon trips.

The maneuvers "will be closer to what an Apollo rendezvous will be than was the case with Gemini 8," said Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford, Gemini 9 command pilot.

Riding with him will be Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan. Their first major task will be to pursue an Agena target satellite across the skies, catching it in four hours over the western Pacific during the third orbit.

"We'll move right in on it, docking within 20 minutes, by the time we reach Hawaii," said Stafford.

The time and maneuvers involved are similar to those planned for two astronauts in a Lunar Excursion Module (LEM) to rejoin the Apollo command ship after they launch themselves from the moon.

While they are on the surface, a third astronaut circles the moon in the main ship.

The Gemini 8 pilots required four orbits to catch their Agena. Stafford and Cernan will reduce the time by one orbit by making a major maneuver seconds after their Titan 2 rocket inserts them into orbit.

Stafford will fire the spacecraft's jet thrusters to adjust the high point of his orbital path so it is 168 miles or precisely 17 miles below the path of the Agena.

Gemini 8 did not make this height adjustment move until after one circuit of the globe. The remaining three major maneuvers each then will occur one orbit earlier than they did on the Gemini 8 flight.

Also, Gemini 9 will be launched about two minutes earlier than Gemini 8. That means the Agena will only have a 720-mile head start instead of a 1,200-mile lead.

The other two rendezvous attempts are scheduled for the third day, after Cernan has taken a space walk and the pilots have maneuvered by firing the Agena engine while docked.

The second will be attempted without the use of radar and the third will simulate the Apollo command ship descending to pick up the Lunar Excursion Module in case the LEM cannot make it down to the moon's surface and is unable to come all the way back up to the main ship.

War Clouded Campaign Keynoted

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Keynoting a war-clouded congressional election campaign, President Johnson has urged Democratic contenders to tell the voters that America will stand with honor, courage and patience in Viet Nam.

And Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield added to that counsel a declaration that another Democratic Congress offers Americans the best hope for a reasonable and honorable peace in Southeast Asia.

Johnson and an array of party leaders praised the current Congress and forecast Democratic gains in the next one at a $100 a plate lunch raising dinner Thursday.

It drew more than 6,100 people to the cavernous, bunting-draped National Guard Armory. The money will go to Democratic candidates for House and Senate seats.

Johnson and Mansfield both advised their party's nominees to tackle the war issue directly in the coming campaign.

The President's advice: "Go out there in the country-side and tell them this fall that America will persevere until peace comes to Viet Nam."

Johnson said the vast majority of Americans will respect that stand.

"The issue must be faced and met in the coming campaign," said Mansfield. "... Democrats in this Congress have no apologies whatsoever to make on the question of Viet Nam."

In different ways, Johnson and Mansfield acknowledged that Democrats do not see eye to eye on the war issue.

Republican strategists are counting on a Democratic dissension to help them gain votes in November.

Johnson had barbed comments for Democratic critics of his Asian stand—represented at the head table by Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, listened, sipped water, puffed cigarettes and applauded politely when the President was through.

"I'm delighted to be here tonight with my very old friends as well as some members of the Foreign Relations Committee," Johnson said with a glance toward Fulbright. "You can say one thing about those hearings, although I don't think this is the place to say it."

A round of hearings before Fulbright's committee has produced a stream of critical senatorial comments about Johnson's Viet Nam stance. Mixed in with the criticism have been comments backing U.S. policy.

Long Hairs Must Wear Swim Caps

CHICAGO (AP) — Boys with girls' hair are going to have to wear swim caps in Chicago Park District pools.

"Long hair clogs up the strainers in the drains and we have to call the engineers to clean up the mess," said Vernon P. Herlund, director of recreation for the district.

Students Take Test to Stay Out of Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Between 350,000 and 400,000 college students undergo three-hour examinations today that may help their draft boards decide whether they can stay in school or be drafted into the armed services.

Another 600,000 youths will take the 150-question draft deferment test May 21, June 3 and June 24. The tests are being given at 1,200 colleges and universities in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone.

Exam results will be forwarded to local draft boards after they are graded by Science Research Associates, a private agency that is administering the tests under a $1-million-plus government contract.

Although the scores are merely advisory, most draft boards are expected to give them considerable weight. The passing grade is 70 for undergraduates and 80 for graduate students.

Mounting draft calls for the Viet Nam war prompted the Selective Service to revive the national test plan last March. It had been dropped in 1963 after 12 years of use.

The system was initiated after complaints by leading educators that a class-standing yardstick alone was unfair to students in tougher colleges.

Mao Emerges Again After Six Months

EDITOR'S NOTE — AP correspondent John Roderick spent a total of six months during 1945-47 in Yenan while it was the Chinese Communists' capital. There he met Mao Tze-tung on many occasions.

An AP News Analysis by JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — The message said "Mao Tze-tung reported dead. Please check." The year was 1946.

Now 72 years old, he chairman of the Chinese Communist party has perhaps had more demises and resurrections — on paper — than any other world figure.

Mao has emerged again after a six-month absence from public view during which all the old rumors and speculation were aired. Two photographs of him with Albanian Premier Mehmet Shehu somewhere in China show him in obvious good humor, looking healthier than ever, somewhat less gaunt than he seemed in photographs last year.

Despite this, U.S. officials in Washington continue to believe Mao's health is bad and power is slipping from his hands.

They may have some intelligence not available elsewhere. But there is nothing to be seen in Tokyo to support this, unless it is the actuarial tables on likelihood of illness. They are high for 72 year olds.

The view here, based on an intensive study of Chinese publications and an analysis of the reports of diplomats and travelers from the mainland is that Mao has not exercised day-to-day control of the government or party since 1959.

In that year, he stepped down as chairman or president of the Chinese People's Republic for the avowed purpose of devoting more time to the large aspects of Chinese Communist policy and problems.

He turned over the protocol and social functions inherent in the presidency to his heir apparent, Liu Shao-chi. The working of the government already had been securely placed in the hands of Premier Chou En-lai and a veteran administration.

Since then, Mao's absences from Peking have been more frequent and for longer durations. Generally he has sought the peace and quiet of the shimmering West Lake at Hangchow to work over his theories.

The results of his research have generally become apparent in the form of new rectification drives, campaigns to place the party in total control of the army, or movements, such as the one now in progress, to purge intellectuals, newspapermen, youth groups, the army and the party itself of those who waver toward the policies of the Soviet Communist party.

Have a Stamp in Common

PANAMA (AP) — What do President Johnson, Pope Paul VI and Francis Cardinal Spellman all have in common?

On a Panamanian stamp it's their hair color: auburn. That's the way it came out on a stamp issued by Panama April 4 as part of a series commemorating the Pope's visit to the United Nations last October.

Postmaster General David Amado said the original stamp drawing showed the hair of the three leaders in their natural color, but it apparently turned auburn when different color inks were superimposed during printing.

Faubus' Son Offers Aid to Candidates

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Farrell Faubus, son of Gov. Orval Faubus, isn't running for any public office but he's started a business which he claims can help others win elections.

He and Paul F. Henson, a referee for the state Workmen's Compensation Commission, have incorporated "Elections, Inc."

The firm's introductory letter, signed by Farrell Faubus, begins:

"Dear Candidate, Would you like to stay one vote ahead of the other candidates in your race? If you would, we are sure that you will want to take advantage of the services we offer."

"Our multipurpose Automated Record and Research System was designed especially for the use of political candidates."

Among the firm's offerings are polls of public sentiment, a complete personal letter service, "lists of voters who have a common goal or purpose (these lists are comprehensive and many are exclusive)," a political cartoon service, complete printing service and copy reproduction, advertising and promotion.

Henson said most of what "Elections, Inc." offers could be found through advertising agencies. "But we do feel we have an edge over them in that we will be able to provide surveys and we do have our methods computerized."

Has the firm any clients yet? "We have had some inquiries," Henson said.

Methodist Families Plan Supper

A family potluck supper will be held Sunday, May 15 starting at 6 p.m. at Fair Park Coliseum by members of the First Methodist and families.

Members are urged to bring food enough for their own families, plus knife, fork and spoon. Paper plates, napkins, cups, coffee, sugar, cream break and coffee, sugar, cream, break, and Century Bible Class.

Africans Want Armed Blockade

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Africans on the U.N. Security Council are pushing a resolution that would have the council call on Britain for an armed blockade of Rhodesia and armed force to overthrow the white minority regime there.

Diplomats generally expressed doubt that such a strong proposal could get the nine votes necessary for adoption by the 15-nation council.

The SAMS, believed to be manned by North Vietnamese crews, have knocked down fewer than 20 of the 235 U.S. warplanes lost above the 17th parallel.

Some U.S. military men believe the SAMS would do better if they were handled by Russian firing crews. Russians have been serving as advisers and trainers, according to information available here.

Among other things, the U.S. Army missile men were told to see what could be learned from the mobility of the Communist weapons.

No U.S. Army air defense commander came up with any suggestion for major change, although there was some feeling that Nike Hercules units might practice moving about more than they do.

Though classified as semimobile, most Nike Hercules batteries are emplaced in rather fixed positions around cities and bases in the United States and abroad.
